PROUD TO BE... ISRAEL'S YOMS REMEMBRANCES AND CELEBRATIONS

by Shahaf Feinkuchen, Israeli Emissary

It's that time of the year again. I am not referring to the end of the school year or when the Sharna and Irvin Frank Aquatics Center opens for the summer, it's the Yoms of course (Yom HaZikaron and Yom Ha'Azmaut). The time when we celebrate the existence of the Jewish state, Israel, and remember the price the Jewish people paid to make it happen.

This year the news from Israel is full of pain, tragedies, and hate alongside inspiring stories of bravery, solidarity, and support. Jewish communities in Israel and around the world are pondering the question, "what is the best way to celebrate the Yoms this year?" On one hand, it feels strange to celebrate or go on 'as usual' while the fighting is still ongoing and there are still more than 100 hostages being held in Gaza for over 6 months. On the other hand, what is more important and uplifting than coming together as a community and bringing pride, happiness, and hope in these difficult times?

Here in Tulsa, our Israel Engagement Committee (IEC) debated this question and decided to keep our traditional Yoms events, while also staying mindful of the current situation. We believe it is important for us to commemorate the loss and pain, and also celebrate and show our pride and support of Israel. To say out loud: we are Jews, we have the right to a Jewish state and self-determination, we have the right to follow our traditions and faith without fear, we are proud, and we belong.

Thanks to our partnership with The Jewish Agency, this year we will host two special Israeli heroes, Noam and Ofek, who will join us for our Yoms events. They will share their personal stories and experiences and will bring some of the Israeli atmosphere to Tulsa. It is a great opportunity to hear first-hand testimonies of their experiences in Israel, while also showing them the strength and support of our Tulsa Jewish community to take back home.

We will begin our week of events on Monday May 13 with Yom HaZikaron (Israeli Memorial Day). We will meet at the flagpole in front of the Jewish Federation for a ceremony to honor and remember all the soldiers and servicemen and women who died in the Israel wars. Community member Matan Poler, an IDF reservist who went to Israel after October 7, will bring to light his experiences upon returning to his homeland. Following the ceremony, we will have dinner in the Barbara and Dave Sylvan Auditorium and listen to our two Israeli guests telling us their personal stories. Additionally, there will be a special opportunity to write letters to Israeli bereaved families.

Switching from grief to happiness and pride, all community members over 21 are invited to join us on Thursday, May 16 for A Taste Of Israel—an evening of Israeli wine and food tasting in celebration of the 76th Yom Ha'Atzmaut (Israel Independence Day). Chef Aaron B. Ware will guide us through the tastings, as we learn about the origins of the Israeli wines and food.

What is Yom Ha'Atzmaut without our traditionally celebrated family fun festival! Join us on Sunday, May 19 for Israel Shalom Fest—an afternoon of fun for all ages. The whole family will enjoy many Israeli-themed games, crafts, activities, and gifts! This family friendly event runs from 3-6 pm and includes Israeli food and kosher hot dogs available for purchase. I am very excited for this opportunity to celebrate these Yoms together with you for the first time since my arrival in Tulsa, especially now during these difficult times. I hope to see you there to celebrate Israel, our community, and our unique connection during the Israeli National Days. ■

by Isabella Silberg, Director of Development and Programming

"IT WAS THE BEST FEDERATION EVENT I HAVE SEEN IN YEARS. BRAVO! THANK YOU."

—LOREN BASCH

The 2024 Jewish Federation of Tulsa's campaign dinner, featuring keynote speaker Yossi Klein Halevi, illuminated the theme of "Pr☆ud to Be" and truly set the tone for this year's campaign season. This was a special evening where community members and donors gathered for an unforgettable night filled with encouragement, reflection, and a shared celebration of Jewish identity. Yossi's poignant words resonated deeply, serving as a beacon of inspiration and discussion for all who attended. This communal event will surely be remembered as a testament to the strength and unity of the Jewish community in Tulsa. Thank you to the event chairs, Kate Basch and Yonatan Schmidt, JFT Board of Directors, campaign committee, volunteers, and staff for making this evening one to remember. We are so PR☆UD to be Jewish Tulsa! ■

THE TZEDEK PROJECT

by Laura Allen, Director of Outreach and Membership

I feel very fortunate to have been accepted into the 2024 Tzedek: Jewish Service Learning Cohort B. The Jewish Community Center Association (JCCA) of North America partnered with Repair the World to train JCC staff across North America to implement or enhance their service (volunteer) programs. I started this program in January with a Zoom call with 17 other women from 12 different JCCs across North America. In February, they flew us to the JCCA headquarters in Manhattan, NY to have an in person retreat with the participants of the cohort. It was an amazing experience to learn more about how to bring Jewish Service Learning back to our community at the CSJCC. Some of you may be wondering “what is Jewish Service Learning (JSL),” and I had the same question when starting this program. “Jewish Service refers to concrete actions taken by volunteers to meet pressing social needs and create just systems. It is driven by the fact that caring for the vulnerable is a Jewish obligation and that Jewish tradition has powerful and valuable teaching to offer about how we treat people with dignity and how to make lasting change.” Repair the World’s approach to Jewish Service Learning has four main components:

1. Direct Service (serving or volunteering locally in your community and knowing the needs of the community)
2. Issue Area Education (the “why” - what we are doing is important to the community or people that we are serving)
3. Jewish Learning (how does this connect with Jewish values or our JCC’s community values)
4. Reflection (discussion of the project and reflecting)

This is where you, the Charles Schusterman Jewish Community Center members and the Tulsa Jewish community come in to play. I need your ideas and your willing hearts to serve. Service days and projects currently scheduled include:

- Food Bank of Eastern Oklahoma

Wednesday, May 17, 1 – 3 pm

May 30–September 9 | Mezzanine Gallery

≈ OPENING RECEPTION: THURSDAY, MAY 30, 6 PM

In partnership with the Tulsa Air and Space Museum, this historical exhibit is dedicated to the story of The Spartan School of Aeronautics, and the training of 42 technical staff members of the young Israeli Air Force, who in 1949 came to the Spartan College of Aviation and Technology in Tulsa, for a 9-month training. They were known as the “Spartan Boys.” The Spartan Boys were “adopted” by families of the Tulsa Jewish community during their time of study. Upon completion of their training, they returned to Israel as certified aircraft mechanics. One young mechanic, Bob Golan (of blessed memory), originally from Poland who went to Israel after the Holocaust, ended up moving to Tulsa and becoming a docent at The Sherwin Miller Museum of Jewish Art.

TULSA TEENS TAKE A BITE OUT OF THE BIG APPLE

by Conley Bolusky

This was my second time attending the Midrasha sponsored trip over Spring Break, and I can proudly say this year's New York City experience did not disappoint. Midrasha is the combined congregations (Temple Israel and Congregation B'nai Emunah) supplemental education for Jewish teens grades 8 – 12. Each year the Midrasha trip has a topic of focused study. This year the topic was immigration.

My favorite part of the trip was when we went to Ellis Island to learn about immigration. My entire life, my family has shared with me our family's journey to America. So, when I learned that we would be going to Ellis Island, I was excited because I knew I could learn more about my family's history. When we stepped onto Ellis Island, I pictured my own ancestors coming to America, with only one bag carrying all their belongings. We explored the museum and learned about the process people had to go through to seek refuge into the United States. One section of the museum allowed visitors to search their family name and learn about their long journey. When my family came to America their name was "Boguslavsky", which was later changed to "Bolusky". While I could not find any records of "Boguslavsky", I know that at some point they were standing on the same ground as was I.

The topic of immigration was chosen because of how prominent it is to our Jewish identity, and how through immigration we are all connected. We participated in many activities relating to immigration throughout the week, including a food tour through the Lower East Side. We visited places that not only brought light to the Jewish communities but to other immigrant communities that have continued to thrive and educate people on their culture. For example, besides visiting a Jewish deli, we also ate at a Dominican restaurant

Book of Psalms at Ellis Island and learned about their culture and their experiences through immigration.

We also visited the Jewish Museum, and learned about art depicting Jewish culture and identity. We explored amazing exhibits and saw how art can bring people together and educate about our Jewish heritage. Besides learning about the Jewish experiences, we visited the 9/11 Memorial, met with NYU Hillel students and toured the campus, and of course, we all got dressed up to see a show on Broadway!

I will always remember this experience, because I was able to connect to my family's American story in a way that I have never before. Thank you so much to Sara Levitt, Rabbi Jasper, and Karen Hafter for giving the Tulsa teens a trip we will never forget! ■

THE ZARROW POINTE CENTENNIAL CLUB®

by Phil Goldfarb

The word Centennial has its origin in the Latin word centum, meaning 100. In the case of the adjective centennial, the addition of -ennial gives the word its sense of describing a one hundred year anniversary.

Besides good genes, what else can be done to become a centennial? According to Jim Jakubovitz, the Chief Executive Officer of Zarrow Pointe, they are numerous.

For years, the primary goal of many older adults was to remain in their homes for as long as possible. However, as older Americans have learned about the opportunities and advantages offered at independent retirement communities, that philosophy is changing.

Living in a retirement community provides many seniors with a higher quality of life, and studies indicate seniors living in retirement communities may be living longer and stronger, meaning they become frail less quickly than those who remain in their own home. Residents of independent retirement communities enjoy better health and could potentially live longer because of it.

According to research, seniors who move to retirement communities live 7-10 years stronger, not just longer, compared to continuing to live in their private homes. They have less stress because of the maintenance-free, carefree lifestyle. There are opportunities to socialize, which benefit their mental health, and opportunities to take care of their physical health by participating in exercise and wellness programs. Plus, seniors in independent retirement communities have the peace of mind in knowing there are services available if help is needed.

With adult children who work, a senior who is living alone and becomes ill or suffers a fall could go hours or more without being discovered by someone who can help them. In an independent retirement community, optional safety measures are in place. Residents can participate in a daily check program should they desire this service. This service provides peace of mind and a sense of security for the resident.

As we age, we may find our social circle beginning to shrink. When this occurs seniors may find themselves more isolated or lonesome. When living in an independent retirement community, residents have the opportunity to enjoy going out into the community at any time of the day to spend time and socializing with friends. Opportunities to engage with others are literally right outside the doorway. This social aspect of a retirement community adds to overall well-being and successful aging.

Some Advantages of Retirement Community Living:

1. Prepared meals and for better nutrition. All meals are nutritionally balanced.
2. Trained staff members are there to provide information and assistance,
3. Better access to health care with a medical doctor specializing in geriatrics on campus and nurses on call 24/7.
4. Health and fitness programs are available on site.
5. Access to transportation services for trips to the store and doctor's appointments
6. Volunteer and civic engagement opportunities, which give seniors opportunities to stay connected with their community.
7. Social and recreational activities include day trips, yoga lessons, Happy Hours, appearances by professional entertainers, ice cream socials, games, crafts and more.
8. Educational and arts programs
9. Religious services on site or transportation to Temple Israel or B'nai Emunah

While living in a retirement community like Zarrow Pointe, Seniors have access to comprehensive wellness programs that stimulate their minds and help maintain their strength and flexibility. It is no secret that exercise helps to improve overall health and well-being at any age. It's difficult to replicate the sort of comprehensive care seniors can obtain in a retirement community at their private home.

In retirement communities, the residents have many more choices than if they remain in their home. If they decide they want to have a quiet day and stay in their apartment home, they can certainly do that. Having access to wellness programs, nutritious meals sitting with someone to talk to, friends with common life experiences and peace of mind combined with safety and security all help to contribute to the overall health and wellness of the residents. Simple things such as engaging in everyday conversation keeps one's brain working along with a sense of a desire to live longer.

Seniors who take part in a comprehensive wellness program maintain a level of independence as well as a more active lifestyle longer than those not participating in a wellness program. The key to a longer and healthier life is addressing all of the needs of seniors together.

Currently, Zarrow Pointe has eight Centennials, which is the largest number that they have ever had at one time. They are Rita Shisler, 102; Isabel Sanditen, 101; George Krumme, 101; Stacia Fielding, 100; Fannie Ecker, 100; Nancy Bloomfield, 100 along with two other individuals who wish to remain anonymous at 101 and 100, with two more coming up this year!

The oldest resident at Zarrow Pointe was Sophia Appel who lived until she was 107! Since Zarrow Pointe first opened as The Tulsa Jewish Retirement Center on April 9, 1986 with their first three residents, (see February 2019 Tulsa Jewish Review “The History of the Tulsa Jewish Retirement Center”) there have been approximately 60 centennials who lived on the campus.

Zarrow Pointe’s mission of “Providing vibrant and inclusive living, learning, and care throughout the progression of life” is certainly a valid one. To that and to all the past, current and future centennials, we say “L’chaim” or “to life.”

My thanks to Jim Jakubovitz for his assistance with this article. ■

AFTER 76 YEARS, WE'RE STILL FIGHTING FOR A JEWISH STATE.

In 1948, as Israel fought for its independence, the medics of Magen David Adom were there, treating wounded soldiers and civilians alike. Today, as Israel celebrates Yom HaAtzma'ut, MDA is still treating the injured — even under fire.

TEMPLE ISRAEL READY FOR A VIBRANT FUTURE; MOVES FORWARD WITH PLANS FOR NEW BUILDING

By Rabbi Michael Weinstein

At an emotional congregational meeting on March 28, 2024, the membership of Temple Israel gave its unanimous and enthusiastic support to a proposal to build a new physical home for the congregation. The new building will be located on a portion of the Temple's East 22nd Place property. (Another portion of the property will be sold to help finance the new building.)

"Our current building is full of wonderful memories," Temple Israel President Jon Stolper noted, "but it just does not meet the needs we have today." "Our building today is too big, lacks modern electrical, plumbing and HVAC systems, and does not fully represent the warm and welcoming type of congregation we are," Stolper continued. Rabbi Michael Weinstein added that "Temple Israel's new physical home will be energy efficient, secure, and accessible to all, including those with disabilities."

The congregational meeting was a critical milestone in the process – named Project NextDor, using the Hebrew word (dor) for generation – that Temple Israel is undertaking to prepare itself for the future. The meeting came after a three-year process of internal discussions about what the congregation is seeking in a new space, a process that included over half the members of Temple Israel in a significant way. As Temple Israel's Incoming President, Brina Reinstein, explained, "it is vitally important that the leadership listened carefully to the desires of as many congregants as possible." "That input," she continued, "will be essential to ensuring the new building meets our needs today, and for the next 50 years."

Reinstein is also heading up the fundraising efforts for the new building. At the congregational meeting she announced that $7,000,000 has already been committed for the project, including a transformational leadership gift of $5,000,000 from the Sanford & Irene Burnstein Family Foundation. The Burnstein Foundation gift is thought to be the largest donation ever to a Jewish institution in Tulsa. "I am honored that the Burnstein Foundation has shown such confidence in the future of Temple Israel," Stolper said, adding "there could not be a better, more appropriate, partner for us in this project."

In designing the Temple's new building, its leadership is being thoughtful about highlighting key elements of its past. It is expected, for example, that the large Ten Commandments sculpture that has been a Tulsa landmark will be moved to the new site. After a nation-wide search, Temple Israel has engaged the Boston-based architectural firm of Feingold Alexander to serve as project architects. Feingold Alexander has extensive experience designing synagogues, including recent, major projects in Omaha, NE and Chicago.

For more information about Project NextDor you can visit its website www.templetulsa.com/next-dor, or contact the Temple Israel office (918/747-1309). ■
